

What is CPTED?

CPTED (Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design) is the use of design to eliminate or reduce criminal behavior while at the same time encouraging people to “keep an eye out” for each other. The key principles are: Natural Surveillance, Access Control, Territoriality, Maintenance and Activity Support.

CPTED works by decreasing a criminal’s ability to commit a crime. It also increases the chances that a legitimate patron will see the crime as it occurs and report it to the police. CPTED goes beyond traditional security methods by naturally integrating security measures into the community.
